INTRODUCTION

The Colorado Department of Higher Education (DHE) and the Colorado Department of Education (CDE) are required by statute to prepare a report on students taking concurrent enrollment in Colorado's public education system each year. This report is submitted to the Education Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives pursuant to 22-35-112 C.R.S.¹

This report summarizes:

1. Data on the number of and names of local education providers and institutions of higher education that have entered into cooperative agreements;
2. Number of public school students participating in concurrent enrollment;
3. Demographic information about students that participated in concurrent enrollment; and
4. Data on the total number and percentage of students that failed to complete concurrent enrollment courses during the 2010-2011 school year.

In this report "Concurrent Enrollment" is the, "simultaneous enrollment of a qualified student in a local education provider and in one or more postsecondary courses, including academic or career and technical education courses, at an institution of higher education" as detailed in 22-35-103 C.R.S. Other than the statewide summary (Tables 1 and 2), this report does not include data on PSEO, Fast Track, or other concurrent programs not created by House Bill 09-1319 .

SUMMARY

The data in this report provide a descriptive summary of concurrent enrollment in Colorado for the 2010-2011 academic year. Data in this report show significant increases in the number of students participating the concurrent enrollment program. Currently, twelve colleges and 243 local education providers have concurrent enrollment cooperative agreements. Slightly more females participate in concurrent enrollment programs compared to males and a high number of minority students are participating in concurrent enrollment programs. Participation in basic skills concurrent enrolment courses was a relatively small share of overall concurrent enrollment participation, but this strategy grew rapidly in 2010-2011 and is anticipated to continue to increase as more high schools adopt this for their 12th grade students.

Colorado is part of a growing national trend of expanding participation in concurrent enrollment programs. Concurrent enrollment programs have been shown to have numerous benefits for students, including higher college matriculation, retention, and degree completion rates. Additionally, concurrent enrollment programs typically save students money by decreasing the time it takes to earn a college degree and because these courses are offered free of charge to students. The consistent collection of data concerning concurrent enrollment programs in Colorado is a relatively recent pursuit; consequently, the state is not yet able to report college matriculation or success in higher education among students who participated in concurrent enrollment programs. In 2013, the state will be able to analyze college matriculation rates of concurrent enrollment participants and monitor their postsecondary academic success.

COMPREHENSIVE SUMMARY OF DUAL ENROLLMENT PROGRAMS

Table 1 provides a summary of the different dual enrollment programs in the state. Fast Track and PSEO will end in Fall of 2012. During the academic year 2010-2011, 20,773 high school students participated in a dual enrollment program. The greatest number of students participated in the Concurrent Enrollment program. Table 2 provides enrollment in the various dual programs by institution of higher education.

Table 1: High School Dual Enrollment Summary

CONCURRENT Program	9,349
ASCENT Program	86
PSEO	5,185
Fast Track	192
Other HS Concurrent Programs	5,961
Total	20,773
Student count is unduplicated by type of concurrent program. Please note that any student enrolled at multiple institutions for one program is counted only once in table 1.

The two-year institutions that served the most students in 2010-2011 were the Community College of Aurora, with over 2,200 students, followed by Arapahoe Community College, with slightly over 2,000. Of the four-year institutions offering concurrent enrollment programs, University of Colorado Denver served over 4,600 students, followed by Colorado Mesa University, with approximately 843 students. For a complete breakdown of concurrent enrollment activity by institution of higher education, please see Appendix B.

DATA ON CONCURRENT ENROLLMENT PROGRAMS

Due to the fact that HB 09-1319 allowed dual enrollment programs that had been in place until 2009 to continue until July 1, 2012, a limited number of local education providers and higher education institutions adopted the Concurrent Enrollment model for the 2010-2011 academic year. PSEO and Fast Track will be phased out by July, 1 2012 (See Appendix E).

1. Partnership Summary

Table 3 lists the number of local education providers and high schools that entered into cooperative agreements, by institution of higher education. In 2010-2011, twelve institutions of higher education and 243 high schools participated in cooperative agreements using the Concurrent Enrollment model per 22-25-104 C.R.S. The total number of participating institutions of higher education increased by ten institutions and the total number of high schools increased by 191 schools, when compared with the 2009-2010 academic year.

2. Enrollment, Demographics, and Academic Success

Enrollment: For the 2010-2011 academic year, participation in concurrent enrollment increased by 7,829 students compared to the previous year. This change is, in part, due to the fact that several institutions of higher education switched over to the Concurrent Enrollment Programs Act (HB 09-1319) in 2010-11. The Community College of Aurora had the largest increase of students enrolled in the concurrent enrollment program, with over 2,000 students in 2010-2011. Table 4 details the unduplicated student count for participating institutions of higher education. (See Appendix B for an unduplicated count of students by institution.)

Accelerating Students through Concurrent Enrollment (ASCENT): The ASCENT program was in its first year during 2010-2011 academic year. Three local education providers participated in this program with a total enrollment of 99 students. Table 6 provides a list of local education providers that participated in the ASCENT program. (Data regarding college matriculation and postsecondary degree and certificate programs enrollment for ASCENT students will not be available until Spring 2012.)

Demographics: Table 7 provides a total headcount of Concurrent Enrollment participants by ethnicity, for the 2009-2010 and 2010-2011 academic years. Participation in concurrent enrollment by minority students experienced tremendous growth during the 2010-2011 academic year.

In 2010-2011, White students comprised less than half of the total number of students participating in concurrent enrollment programs. Hispanic students experienced the largest increase in concurrent enrollment. (Appendix C details concurrent enrollment participation, by ethnicity, for each participating higher education institution.)

Includes Concurrent Enrollment and does not include ASCENT or Concurrent remedial courses. Counts may differ based upon multiple enrollments and descriptive reporting.

Table 8 shows a headcount of concurrent enrollment participation by gender. Slightly more females participate in concurrent enrollment than males. This is consistent with overall college participation rates for females compared to males.

Basic Skills Courses: Table 10 details student participation in basic skills concurrent enrollment courses by institutions of higher education. Five hundred eighteen of the 9,360 (approximately 5.5%) participants in concurrent enrollment programs registered for basic skills courses. Between 2009-2010 and 2010-2011, enrollment in basic skills concurrent enrollment courses increased dramatically. The largest such enrollments were at the Community College of Denver and the Community College of Aurora. It is important to note that rural colleges, such as Colorado Northwestern Community College and Trinidad State Junior College, also experienced growth in this area.

Appendix E: DATA ON CONCURRENT ENROLLMENT

Due to the flexibility of the legislation for the continued use of other dual enrollment models until July 1, 2012, a limited number of local education providers and higher education institutions adopted the Concurrent Enrollment model for the academic year 2010-2011. PSEO and Fast Track will be phased out by July, 1 2012. As more local education providers and institutions of higher education utilize the Concurrent enrollment and ASCENT programs, future reports will contain more outcome-based data and illustrate trends regarding Concurrent Enrollment programming.

Methodology and Data

- Data Collection: Data were collected through the DHE Student Unit Record Data System (SURDS) and CDE report requirements for the 2010-2011 academic year.
- Report Format: The report presents information in three parts:
 1. Information about partnerships between local education providers and institutions of higher education;
 2. Data on enrollment, demographics, and academic success;
 3. Concurrent Enrollment and basic skills course enrollment.
- Data Limitations: These data reflect the state of Concurrent Enrollment and ASCENT programs prior to the statutory requirements for institutions of higher education and local education providers to use the Concurrent Enrollment model pursuant to 22-35-102 C.R.S. These ASCENT data presented reflect year one implementation for the academic year 2010-2011. Data to track college matriculation and degree completion of concurrent enrollment participants is not yet available.
